

Jack Pack

Jack Pack are a uniquely contemporary swing pop group made up of four distinct vocalists: Andrew Bourn, Alfie Palmer, Martin McCafferty and Sean Ryder Wolf, who channel an elegance reminiscent of the last days of true Hollywood glamour with a quintessentially British twist.

Imagine taking the style of the Rat Pack, the grace of Sinatra and the panache of Michael Bubl  and combining it with the raw chemistry, class and swagger of this unrivalled group.

They transport us back to a timeless era and add a contemporary feel to swing classics such as My Way, That's Life and Feeling Good, by delivering sensational lead vocals and beautifully tight harmonies. Their performance is powerful, slick and totally irresistible. They preserve, do justice and add value to this wonderful genre as they effortlessly work their way through their show. The songs are sung as they were written to be sung and Jack Pack draw the audience in with their performance, charm and star quality.

Signed to Simon Cowell's label Syco, following their sensational performance at the BGT final 2014, Jack Pack went on to achieve international success following their Top 10 self titled debut album in 2015. They are very highly respected and have been creating a storm among their fans on TV shows such as Tonight at the Palladium (ITV) and on BBC Radio 2 and Magic FM. Whether it's to 40,000 people at Hyde Park, the British Monarchy at St James' Palace or at a private or corporate event, they have proven their appeal to people from all walks of life and all ages.

Their recent engagements have taken them to all corners of the globe from private parties in South America, South of France, Dubai and Asia to corporate gala events for M&S, Nationwide, Land Rover, British Airways, Royal Mail, OK Magazine and many more.
