

IAN MOORE

Full English Brexit

A Must for your next conference or event!

This totally unique Brexit Corporate Set offers a whole new look at our exit from the European Union

You simply have to book this compelling conference presentation by Ian Moore

Stand-up comedian and best-selling author, Ian Moore, occupies a unique position in British comedy.

TV/Radio regular and much sought after corporate awards host and after-dinner speaker, Ian lives in rural France and commutes back to the UK every week for work.

Thanks to Brexit that fragile way of life is under threat and has made Ian an unwitting, but witty, expert in UK and European visa, travel, trade agreements, sub-committees and cross-channel bickering. His sharp, entertaining punditry can be seen regularly on Dave's satirical TV show Unspun, Channel 5's topical Comedy Big Mouths, and TRT World's weekly dissection of the news, Nexus.

But why a live show about Brexit?

The short answer is because it's funny. Whether you are Leave or Remain, one can't deny the sheer craziness of the situation; the way it's been handled, the personalities involved and the on-going object lesson in just how not to do things.

Brexit has thrown up questions about:

- Leadership • Planning • Teamwork • Expertise

All vital areas in the corporate world and which, through the prism of Brexit, Ian addresses with his trademark dry humour. The 'Will of the People', for example, is that really a reliable mechanism for 21st century governance? The will of the people led to a dog winning Britain's Got Talent and Justin Bieber having more UK number one's than Bob Dylan.

But what's the alternative?

Ian's very personal, vested interest in the outcome of Brexit has struck a chord with many, and his weekly blog 'Full English Brexit' (described as 'like a 21st Century Tony Hancock') has been read in the hundreds of thousands. This live show aims to bring that humour to life and in the end do what the British do best, laugh at ourselves, no matter how bleak things looks.
