

Rob Walker

TV broadcaster with over 25 years experience on BBC, ITV and Channel 4

Commentated on ten Olympic Games, and eight Paralympic Games

Snooker MC and broadcaster for BBC and ITV

Rob Walker is one of the most well-respected broadcasters in sport.

At the Paris 2024 Olympics Rob commentated on the final of the 100 metres to millions of TV viewers around the world, in what was his tenth Olympic Games.

Rob's passion for sport storytelling sets him apart as one of the go-to commentators for the BBC, ITV and Channel 4. He was shortlisted for British Sports Commentator of the Year for his work on the Paralympics, and his voice can be heard on the Netflix hit athletics show 'Sprint'.

In addition to commentary, Rob is the Master of Ceremonies for World Snooker on the BBC and a regular speaker and event host; entertaining the crowd with his humour and high energy.

That same energy also helped him run and cycle from John O'Groats to Land's End in one of his many charity endeavours, which includes fundraising and regular school visits to inspire the next generation.

Rob is a family man, popular motivational speaker and event MC, as well as an excellent dancer - as seen on Have I Got News For You!
